

Happenings at Tall Grass Bison

We thought we would make this newsletter about events on and off the farm.

As usual the seasons turn and our family grew again with the arrival of new calves. You'll see in the video that mothers have to hustle to keep up with their new little ones.

Earlier this year we were invited to consult with the Brookfield Zoo in Chicago. We spent several very productive days meeting with them and Native Americans concerning the zoo's new bison exhibit slated to open next year (see photo).

Last month an article about us appeared in Living the Country Life magazine. Here is link to the article.

Last weekend an ag class from our local college toured the farm to learn of our bison friendly corrals and sustainable herd management techniques.

And this weekend we hosted a film crew doing a documentary for the likes of Discovery channel and public television.

Their film will mostly be about the bison of Yellowstone. But they wanted to include us because of our philosophies and management for social family order (which comes as close to Yellowstone's herd as possible). Finally, we're in the process of doing an on-line interview which will be posted soon.

Hope this e-mail finds you all well. Summer is a coming!
